NO QUORUM--NO ELECTION

Will Be No Change Until After Quay's Trial.

THE LINES ARE CLOSELY DRAWN

Quay and His Lieutenants Appear to be Hopeful, but the Facts Seem Quite Antagonistic.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Harrisburg, Jan. 30—It is believed there will be no change in the senatorial vote until after Quay's trial is over, which is set for Feb. 20th. The lines are closely drawn and it is hopeless to expect a break under the existing circumstances.

Quay and his lieutenants declare with every show of confidence that he will be re-elected but the facts seem antagonistic. A quorum today would be greatly to Quay's advantage, but the democrats and anti-Quay republicans will not participate in the vote for fear of some trick.

Later—No quorum. The vote stood: Quay, 35; Jenks, 4.

Ewart's Case Up.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Washington, Jan. 30—The senate judiciary committee has taken up consideration of the nomination of Judge Ewart, of North Carolina.

The senate judiciaro committee has presented an adverse report on the nomination of Ewart.

OPPOSES THE DISPENSARY.

Mr. Cone Says it is Sure to Impede Our Progress.

Greensboro, N. C., Jan. 30, '99.
To the Editor:

Dear Sir:—I was busily engaged in New York last week endeavoring to organize one of the largest manufacturing corporations yet located in Greensboro, when my attention was called to the present agitation for a dispensary law. I could not believe it possible, in these days of advancing civilization and respect for the personal rights of the individual, that a town which I have been telling everybody is the coming town of the state, should so deliberately enter upon a path certain to stop its progress.

I have been explaining to prejudiced northern investors that North Carolina has turned a new leaf, that there will be no more repudiation, no more populism, no more attacks on prosperty or individual rights in the state and that, especially in Greensboro, the stranger will be welcomed with liberality and open-handed hospitality.

I have never known a town in which this question was constantly agitated which prospered, and we all know that when the "dispensary" is established, those of us opposed to it will agitate for its discontinuance, and, finally, it will be discontinued, all of which will be bad for the town. The business men, however much they, as we all do, desire the good will and friendship of the preachers and church, do not want to see our business go down and our prosperity interfered with over these personal questions. The church cannot prosper and do good and increase in membership and prosperity when there is no prosperity in the community. Every one knows how unsalable real estate was in Greensboro three years, ago and that today it has a market value. Are holders of property willing to see the former condition of things return? Let them pass dispensary law, and they will find themselves accommodated. The merchant, the real estate owner and dealer, the lawyer, the banker, the clerk, the carpenter, the laborer, in Greensboro is today in better prosperity, comparatively, than in any other town in the state. Are they going to put an end to all that?

Dispensaries may be all right for small, provincial, back-woods towns, but not for enterprising and up-to-date cities. We all know how the traveling public feel on this subject and that enterprise will not settle in a community when one part of the people try to regulate the personal rights of the other. What investor will come here with his money under such circumstances? I would much rather see absolute prohibition than this "dispensary" method of forcing men to regulate their appetites.

I say frankly that of all the enterprises I am connected with, and have directly or indirectly influenced to come to Greensboro, not one would have come had we thought such laws would be sprung on us. If there is anything that will kill a town, when others, its competitors, are enjoying all the rights and privileges of an advanced civilization, it is when similar rights and privileges of its own citizens are limited and curtailed. Cannot any one see how Raleigh, Durham, Winston and Charlotte would each benefit at our expense, with such a law in operation here? Can any one imagine the progressive, public-spirited, liberal, up-to-date, city of Charlotte passing such a law?

I do not believe that when the time comes, a majority in this community can be found for this proposition, and if it can, it will be unfair, it will be wrong, for such a majority to take away from the minority personal rights and liberties of this kind.

Very truly yours,
Moses H. Cone.

Getting In Its Work.

That article in our paper of Saturday (and, by the way, the same thing will appear today on local page) is getting in its work.

You may argue as you will, it does not change the fact that your boy must wear clothes.

It has been thoroughly demonstrated that there are clothes and clothes, but the fact that the Mrs. Jane Hopkins' make are at the top cannot be denied. The article above referred to is headed Sunday reading. Give it your attention.

A Splendid Sermon.

Rev. Howard E. Rondthaler, of Salem, preached a very interesting and timely sermon last night to the young ladies of the State Normal and Industrial College. The sermon was filled with wholesome advice and was much appreciated by those who heard it. Mr. Rondthaler is one of the state's foremost young divines and Dr. McIver did well to secure him to preach to the young ladies.

Raging Fires In Chicago and Pittsburg.

THERMOMETER BELOW ZERO.

People Turned Adrift in the Streets With Scant Clothing—Heavy Financial Losses.

By Wire To THE TELEGRAM.

Chicago, Jan. 30—The Mahogany yards, Raynor Morgan and Fulton & Austin's box factory were burned this morning. The loss is estimated at three hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. The Smith boarding house, adjoining, was destroyed, and twenty-five lodgers in scant attire, were forced into the streets with the mercury below zero. Ten firemen were compelled to jump from the burning buildings to the street, and one of them severely injured.

FIRE IN PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Jan. 30—The Simon building, occupied by the New York Biscuit company, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss one hundred thousand. The extreme cold weather greatly hampered the firemen and disabled some of the apparatus.

GRENSBORO BOND BILL PASSES.

Also Mr. Winston's Bill Making Cohabitation a Felony.

Raleigh, Jan. 28—The senate was called to order at 10 o'clock. Prayer was offered by Senator Jones. After reports of committees and the introduction of bills, the calendar was taken up and bills as follows passed final reading: To repeal chapter 112, laws of 1895, and chapter 172, laws of 1897, relating to the extension of the boundaries of Mt. Airy township. This bill practically enforces the collection of a $25,000 bond issue, subscribed for the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley railroad; to authorize the treasurer of Haywood county to pay school claims; for the relief of Sarah McLeary, a colored school teacher in Chatham county; to incorporate the town of Mt. Gilead, in Montgomery county; to repeal chapter 51, laws of 1897, relating to the prevention of fishing with certain nets in Albemarle county; to protect cattle from splenetic fever. (In explaining this bill Senator Fields suggested that the particular evil guarded against was the boophilus bovis, or a particular fever tick, which particu'ar tick is a disease, particularly contagious and deadly to cattle).

A bill to repeal section 3,113 of The Code came up. This bill provides that a local option election may be held in any month during the year, instead of in June, as the law now stands, and on a petition of one-fourth of the citizens of a township, instead of one-half, as formerly. Though not germane the general principal of local option was brought under discussion. Senator Bryan did uot believe in local option. He said prohibition did not prohibit, and only led to evasion of the law and the curtailing of man's rights. High license—say $500 to $1,000, or even $5,000—was the best policy.

Senator McIntyre did not agree with this view. He said that ten years ago in Lumberton women and children were not safe from drunken men and that general lawlessness prevailed. This was under the high license system. Now, he said, there was local option in Lumberton; there were sobriety and dency and not 100 arrests in a year. He urged that religion and the women and children of North Carolina be given the same chance, at least, as the barroom people of the state.

Senator Ward said that he wished to propose an amendment to the bill, that cities and counties should be included in the bill, in addition to townships, for, he said, as the measure stands, whiskey could be driven from one township to another where there was no police surveilance, and to be effective its provisions should apply more generally. The bill was finally re-referred to the committee.

A bill to allow Greensboro to issue bonds passed final reading, so did bills to authorize the payment of school teachers in Halifax county for services rendered in 1897; to amend the charter of Gastonia; to amend chapter 159, laws of 1895, (this is Rountree's bill and prevents judges fron issuing an injunction or restraining order on a quo warranto proceeding against a defendant office); to incorporate the Carolina Building and Surety Company; to amend chapter 108 laws of 1895, authorizing the commissioners of Moore county to elect officers in case of vacancy.

The bills to protect game in Cherokee, Clay and Macon counties and to amend the charter of Greenville, passed second reading and were placed on tomorrow's calendar.

Senators Hicks and Campbell were added to the committee on engrossed bills.

IN THE HOUSE.

Many bills were introduced, among which was one by Mr. Alexander, of Rutherford, to create the "Vance textile department" of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. The bill simply amends section 9, public laws of 1897, chapter 410, by adding to said section: "It shall be the duty of said board to establish and maintain a department of the college in which shall be taught the manufacture of textile goods."

The bill introduced by Winston, of Bertie, to make cohabitation between the whith and black races a felony, punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than four months or in the state prison for not more than five years came up for consideration with a favorable report from the committee. The bill evoked considerable discussion. Speaker Connor called Hon. Locke Craig to the chair and took the floor in advocacy of the measure. Ex-Judge Allen and Mr. Justice opposed the bill on the ground that it would provoke blackmail and fraud.

An aye and nay vote was demanded on the vote. The bill passed second reading by a vote of 62 to 24. Ray, of Macon, objected to the passage of the bill on its third reading.

Winston declined to give his consent to postponement and the bill passed its final reading. "A clincher" was then put on the bill by a motion to reconsider and lay on the table.

The bill to regulate the measurement of timber came up with an unfavorable report. A substitute was offered by the committee. Jones, of Pender, the author of the bill, said that there was no uniform rule for timber measurement in the state, and that such laws were usual. Winston, of Bertie, offered an amendment excluding Bertie and Hertford from the operation of the bill. He declared that the proposed enactment would work a great injustice to the seller. Leatherwood opposed the bill. He said it would do Western North Carolina a great injustice and was the worst measure yet introduced in the legislature. He declared further that the bill if enacted, would drive capital from the state. Rountree favored a uniform rule for the state. He said that such an important matter should be carefully considered, and he asked that the bill be recommitteed to the committee on propositions and grievances. Council, of Watauga, declared that few, if any, states in the union had a law governing timber measurement and he opposed the bill. It was agreed that the bill should go to the committee on propositions and grievances for further consideration.

The bill changing the name of the town of Wolsey, in Buncombe county, to Raymond passed all of its readings Mr. Craig stated that the town was originally named Raymond, in honor of an old citizen of the town, but that the fusion legislature changed its name to Wolsey, in honor of a republican.

The house concurred in the amendment adopted by the senate relating to the bill affecting quo warranto proceedings.

The bill increasing the number of county commissioners of Perquimans passed its readings.

The resolutions raising a committee to name trustees of the University was adopted.—Charlotte Observer.

Peculiar Contempt Case.

By Wire to the TELEGRAM.

MR. KITCHIN IS EULOGIZED

THE BILL'S CHANCES NOT BRIGHT.

Only Three North Carolina Congressmen Favor It—They are Messrs. White, Linney and Pearson.

Special to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The speech of Representative Kitchin, of North Carolina, upon the army reorganization bill, which is now pending in the house, was one of the best that has been delivered by the opposition to to the measure. Mr. Kitchin has received and is receiving many congratulations on account of his effort, and it is believed that it will be an important aid in killing the measure in the house, if it is accomplished.

So far as can be learned the majority of the North Carolina delegation in the house will vote against the bill to increase the army. So far as known there are only three members of the nine who are favorable to its passage, Representatives White, Linney and Pearson. The adoption of the amendment reducing the army from the original figure proposed, 100,000 to 50,000, will undoubtedly aid in passing the bill through the house, as many republicans, in view of the reduction will give the measure their vote tomorrow, who otherwise would not have supported the bill at all. The vote upon the opposition will undoubtedly register their strongest vote upon a motion to recommit the bill, which will probably be made by Representative Hay, of the committee on military affairs, who is leading the opposition in the house. Upon a motion to recommit several republicans will join the democrats, but whether there will be enough to carry the motion remains to be seen.

The chances for the passage of the bill through the senate, as it now stands, are not very bright. Senator Butler is opposed to the increase, and he stated the other day that he does not believe that the senate will pass the house bill. If any measure is enacted into law at this session, it will be a compromise measure.

Among the petitions presented to the senate on Saturday was one by Senator Pritchard, of North Carolina, on behalf of the state senate and assembly, reduesting that an appropriation be made to establish a light beacon at the Cape Channel in Pamlico Sound.

In the house of representatives a similar petition was presented on behalf of the state legislature, by Representative White.

Senator Butler, by request, has introduced a bill in the senate to regulate the service, and fix the hours of policemen in the District of Columbia. The measure provides for the limiting of the hours of policemen to eight hours per day, as a day's service.

Senator Pritchard introduced one or two bills Saturday, for Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, who was called home on account of the senatorial contest in West Virginia. One of the bills provides for an increase of salary for the second and third assistant secretaries of state. The other measure provides for an increase of salary of the consul at Windsor, Nova Scotia.

Among the late nominations confirmed by the senate is that of Ella C. Peace, to be postmaster at Oxford, Granville county, North Carolina. The nomination was confirmed by the senate late Saturday night, and she will be duly commissioned.

It is announced that Mrs. James Baker, wife of assistant librarian of the senate, will not return to Washington for several weeks, owing to the death of her sister, Mrs. Hamilton Erwin, which took place at Morganton, North Carolina, on Monday last.

Star Service change has been ordered in North Carolina as follows: Chapel Hill to Chapel Hill.—Supply Kilgo, one way only, between Lindsay and Lambsville, without change in distance.

Hon. Robt. M. Douglas, of Greensboro, North Carolina, is at the Ebbitt House.

Among other North Carolina people in the city are J. T. Hays, of Sapphire, J. Montgomery and wife, of Charlotte, and Miss Drummond, of Asheville.

Some people say they are opposed to a dispensary because it is a compromise and they do not want to throw away or surrender the ground gained by years of hard work. That talk sounds funny coming from an uncompromising "dry" man when it is remembered he had his heart's desire here once—no open or licensed saloons—and that now there are nine. Evidently the fleet sailed in the wrong direction and captured the wrong Island. Any man with two eyes can see that nothing has been gained. And if the question of a dispensary should be submitted to the people, there are still funnier things ahead. We will be treated to the spectacle of prohibitionist and liquor man voting together to retain the saloon!

TENDS TO ELEVATE IT.

Editor Foote, of the High Point Citizen, delivers himself of an editorial in Saturday's paper against the dispensary movement. His theme is that the dispensary tends to elevate the liquor business. He touches a chord that is liable to catch those who have not made a thorough study of the system. He explains nothing. He leaves the impression that the only change in the manner of conducting the liquor business is from individual to municipal or "public" ownership. He does not tell his readers that the unfortunates who are commonly known as drunkards are to be restricted and cut off.

He does not explain to them that the "respectable" saloon will do its business in the day time, and that there will be no drinking booths or parlors attached in which the youths can hide; or that there will be no bands of music to assist the fiery hypnotic in leading the younger victims into the death-trap. There will be no fancy pictures or flashy show windows; in short there will be none of the various schemes to entice and entrap the youth and help them to form the yearning and yawning appetite.

Brother Foote, it is a scheme to stop the manufacture of drunkards. The old, settled fellows are going to have it as long as they wrestle with time, unless they take a turn at Keeley and then, in the strength that God gives, refuse to again return to the reeking stuff. You say you would like to see a universal prohibition law. The drunkard, the "respectable" (if you please) and the boy drinker can now buy liquor in High Point, sober, industrious and prosperons High Point! And that with an iron-clad prohibition clause woven into its very life—its town charter. The Guilford county court records show that this is true.

We do not say this to in any way injure our neighbor. The same was true of Greensboro when it was a prohibition town. Then why not adopt a method that has proven effective in other places. The blind-tiger is an outlaw and can only do business in defiance of law. Throttle the blind-tiger by placing him where he will not need the sympathy and protection of the "respectable" drinker. He will not do business long where he is only backed by the poor drunkard, the man who the dispensary refuses to sell to, and above all the very man whom the prohibitionists should try to save.

A condition and not a theory confronts us. Then look at it, as the German would say, "mit some common sense" and in the light furnished us by experience. There is a class who are going to have whiskey any how, "respectable" or not. There is another class who will have it provided they can get it. There is another class whom every man should rise up to save—the boys. A great majority of drinkers acquire the habit and the desire between fifteen and twenty-one years of age. Keep whiskey away from a boy until he is grown and nine times out of ten he'll be a sober man. This is just what the dispensary is designed to do. It is destined to reach the poor man whose appetite drags him with his last dime to the bar, when his children are crying for bread.

When you again take up the subject, Brother Foote, tell your readers what this dispensary has accomplished in Fayetteville and other North Carolina towns. Tell them how crime and drunkenness have been reduced. Tell them how the dispensary restricts the business; in short, meet the question conditionally and not theoretically.

You say "legislate to make whiskey selling as disreputable and contemptible as possible." That kind of legislation is already in force in every prohibition town where blind tigers flourish. The devil is the winner and the already poor and degraded man is the loser. Try something that has been proven to be better than a prohibition law without the sentiment to back it up.

SHE GOT HIM BACK.

How the Dog's Mistress Retained Her Pet Spaniel.

When Mrs. Marie Nevins Blaine was married to Dr. W. T. Bull, her pet spaniel, Lion, was banished. After the couple had been married a year Mrs. Bull persuaded her husband to let Lion return for a week, promising to keep him in the stable.

Three days of Lion's visit had passed when as Dr. Bull was taking off his overcoat in his office there came a rap at the inner door. It was so faint that at first he did not notice it. Then when it was repeated he said, "Come in." No one came, but the rapping went on. He opened the door, and there stood Lion. He had been knocking the door with a little wooden box he held in his mouth, addressed to Dr. Bull. The doctor took the box, and Lion, too polite to intrude, turned and walked in a dignified manner back up stairs. The doctor opened the box and read the tiny note contained therein, smiled and threw it in the scrapbasket.

The next day Lion knocked and left another note. The third time he came there was a reply for him. The doctor said, "Lion, wait." He took the box, abstracted the note, put one of his own in its place, and handing the box back to the dog gave him a pat and sent him up stairs. Here is a copy of Lion's notes and the reply they finally elicited:

DEAR DOCTOR—I am enjoying my visit to my mistress very much. It was very kind of you to invite me here, and I have tried to behave the best I know how. It will be hard to leave my mistress again. I wish you would like me a little bit. LION.

The letter which Lion carried back to his mistress read:

LION—You are such a respectable, well bred fellow that your visit is extended indefinitely. W. T. B.

MOIST WEATHER.

A Description of a Spell of Humidity on the Wabash.

"Talking about rainy weather," said the westerner, "I remember once out in Indianapolis meeting a farmer who took the most cheerful view of dampness of anybody I ever saw. I asked him if they had had much rain down on the Wabash that spring.

"'Well, it has been a little damp,' he answered. 'The day before I left home I had to hang up 24 of my ducks. They had got so water soaked that they couldn't swim any longer. I planted my corn in two feet of water, and I don't expect over 80 bushels to the acre. My wheat is looking pretty well, but the sturgeon and catfish have damaged it considerably. There was about 15 minutes' sunshine one day, and I thought I would plant my potatoes, so I loaded them on a scow and anchored the scow in three feet of water, when it began to rain again.

"'I wanted to go down on the bottom lands next the Wabash to see if the grass was growing for my hay crop, but my wife said that as we didn't have any diving bell she'd rather I wouldn't. I should feel kind of discouraged with all the rain, but I've spent my odd hours of leisure time—and the even ones, too, on account of staying in out of the wet—building us an ark. If it will only rain another week or two until I get her ready to sail, I'm going to take my family out to Missouri by water for a trip to visit our folks that moved off out there because they didn't know enough to stay in a place where they were comfortable.'"—Boston Transcript.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe and its exhausting after effects. Never fails. Howard Gardner.

The Deadly Grip

Is again abroad in the land. The air you breathe may be full of tts fatal germs! Don't neglect the "Grip" or you will open the door to Pneumonia and Consumption and invite death. Its sure signs are chills with fever, headache, dull heavy pains, mucous discharges from the nose, sore throat and never-let-go cough. Don't waste precious time treating this cough with troches, tablets, or poor, cheap syrups. Cure it at once with Dr. King's New Discovery, the infallible remedy for bronchial troubles. It kills the disease germs, heals the lungs and prevents the dreaded after effects from the malady. Price 50c and $1.00. Money back if not cured. A trial bottle free at C. E. Holton's drugstore.

Unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft.

Conspicuous among the brilliant and beautiful women of her time was the lovely and every way unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin, the first agitator of the question of "woman's rights." No woman, with the exception of Mme. de Stael, made so great an impression on the public mind. Her new and startling doctrines were seized with an avidity scarcely credible at this day, and her famous book, "The Vindication of the Rights of Women," was the theme of the most universal praise and abuse.

Thomas Paine, the author of "The Rights of Man," was one of her familiar acquaintances, but their intercourse was an argument, their views neither on this subject nor any other coincoiding. In these arguments Paine either lost his temper or became sulky, and the woman champion won an easy victory.

Until her marriage with Mr. Godwin she was the friend of Mrs. Siddons, but she, with the majority of her admirers, declined to sanction this union, for she had married some years before an American called Imlay, to whom she had been a most devoted wife. The man, however, took advantage of the fact that the marriage was only a civil one, performed in Paris, and deserted her. She then married Mr. Godwin, but this act placed her in a position no charity could explain away. Death, however, soon covered her faults with a pitiful oblivion. She left an infant daughter a few hours old, who afterward became the wife of Percy Bysshe Shelley.—Exchange.

Those Black Eyes.

"The small son of the people," says the Philadelphia Record, "and his little sister were inside the great West Philadelphia church for the first time. 'Um—m—my! but it's a beaut place,' he whispered. 'I bet people wot belong here comes every time dey can.' Her breath came to her in little gasps. Her soiled little finger pressed on his with thrilled intensity. Her eyes feasted on the splendid chancel. 'Heaven mus' be nex' door,' she said. They hardly moved throughout the service, and never once let go each other's hands, for it was as a strange land. At last the sweet voiced procession of choir boys came down the aisle. At its head was a slim young seraph, with a face as fair and pure as the linen he wore. Faint, dark circles beneath his eyes completed the ethereal effect.

"'Is dem angels?' the little girl began, but stopped short, surprised at the look on her brother's face.

"'Dat kid in front's Bill Griggs, wot I licked last week fer swipin' t'ings from olé Mrs. Maguire's apple stand. He ain't got over dem black eyes I gev 'im yet. Come on, let's git out.' His face was stern and set as they went. She furtively wiped a tear."

Field and the Street Arabs.

Never was a man more devoted to his wife. Nevertheless on the day that made her his he was guilty of keeping her waiting for him at the church. The bridal party had assembled and were rapidly becoming uneasy. At length, after an anxious delay, some one went out in search of the missing bridegroom.

He was found on the street a short distance away, down on his knees in the mud, absorbed in settling a dispute between two small street arabs, which had arisen over a game of marbles. Listening with eager interest to the testimony vociferated at either ear by the belligerent parties and their friends and trying to evolve a peace compromise out of a very lively quarrel, he was abruptly reminded that just then he had something more important to attend to, and hastened penitently away to make his anxious bride Mrs. Field.

She Was Unduly Excited.

Bishop Selwyn was a hard worker and never spared himself. He was one day seizing an hour's much needed sleep on the bench of a little roadside station in Derbyshire, en route for a confirmation. A lady of some social distinction and her daughter were on their way to the same rite, the daughter as a confirmee. They went to the solitary porter and said they were afraid to pass the drunken man on the platform, to which the porter replied in tones of much solemnity, "If you please, my lady, it's the lord bishop!"—Mainly About People.

England's "Rose Regiment."

The custom of wearing roses in their headgear by the Lancashire regiment on the anniversary of the battle of Minden originated in a curious manner. On the day of the battle, Aug. 1, 1759, the men passed through a field of roses, each man plucking a rose and placing it in his bonnet, wearing the flower during the fight. This commenced the custom which obtains at the present day of wearing roses on the anniversary of the battle.

The Sultan's Throneroom.

The throneroom of the sultan at Constantinople is a gorgeous sight. The gilding is unequaled by any other building in Europe, and from the ceiling hangs a superb Venetian chandelier, the 200 lights of which make a gleam like that of a veritable sun. At each of the four corners of the room tall candelabra in baccareat glass are placed, and the throne is a huge seat covered with red velvet, and having arms and back of pure gold.

Rosebery's Definition of Memory.

Here is a joli mot of Lord Rosebery's—would one ever expect mots from Lord Rosebery?—told in our garden by a woman who heard him say it at a dinner. Some one asked him what memory was. "Memory," said Lord Rosebery, "is the feeling that steals over us when we listen to our friends' original stories."—Harper's Bazar.

Doctors Can't Cure It!

Contagious blood poison is absolutely beyond the skill of the doctors. They may dose a patient for years on their mercurial and potash remedies, but he will never be rid of the disease; on the other hand, his condition will grow steadily worse. S. S. S. is the only cure for this terrible affliction, because it is the only remedy which goes direct to the cause of the disease and forces it from the system.

I was afflicted with Blood Poison, and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their treatment faithfully. In fact, I seemed to get worse all the while. I took almost every so-called blood remedy, but they did not seem to reach the disease, and had no effect whatever. I was disheartened, for it seemed that I would never be cured. At the advice of a friend I then took S. S. S., and began to improve. I continued the medicine, and it cured me completely, building up my health and increasing my appetite. Although this was ten years ago, I have never yet had a sign of the disease to return.
W. R. NEWMAN,
Staunton, Va.

It is like self-destruction to continue to take potash and mercury; besides totally destroying the digestion, they dry up the marrow in the bones, producing a stiffness and swelling of the joints, causing the hair to fall out, and completely wrecking the system.

To Our Friends and Patrons:

In closing our books for the year 1898 we find we have quite a number of small accounts which in themselves are trivial, but she aggregate would make quite a nice sum. While we wish to be obliging and courteous to our customers and try ro please all, we must insist upon getting our business upon more of a Cash Basis.

To open so many small accounts involves quite an amount of book keeping and consumes too much valuable time. This can bo avoided by paying cash for your bundle when delivered and do away with all possibility of disputed accounts.

Thanking our customers for their patronage in the past, and extending to each and every one the greetings of the season.

Opening of the Social Season and Inauguration of the Magnificent

New York & Florida Limited Service

JANUARY 16, 1899.

The opening of the Florida season will be signalized this year as usual by the placing in service of the "New York and Florida Limited" between New York and St. Augustine, Fla. This is acknowledged to be the finest train in the world, in its appointments, luxury and detail of finish, and the first of these trains was constructed by the Pullman company for the use of the President of the United States on official tours.

"The New York and Florida Limited" leaves New York daily except Sunday at 11:50 a. m., via the pennsylvania Railroad, the Southern Railway, Florida Central & Peninsular R. R. and the Florida East Coast Railway, and reaches St. Augustine at 2.20 p. m. the following day, making the run, which exceeds 1,000 miles, in little more than twenty-four hours. No train has attracted so much attention, and its fame has been heralded wherever railroading is known. It is composed of Pullman compartment cars, each room being finished in different woods and supplied with private lavatory and toilet; Pullman drawing-room sleeping cars of the latest pattern and finish; a royal club car for the gentlemen; an observation car with a handsome drawing room at its rear opening on to a wide platform; a library car, and dining car, in which the service and the cuisine rank with the finest New York hotels. This "New York and Florida Limited" runs through solid to St. Augustine with the exception of one car which is detached at Columbia, S. C., and goes through to Aiken, which it reaches at 9:35 the next morning after leaving New York, and Augusta at 9·50. Brunswick and Jeckyl Island are conveniently reached by this train at 12 o'clock noon through the perfect connections afforded at Everett, Ga.

There are two other fine trains between New York ond Florida via "The Florida Short Line," one the "Washington and Southwestern Vestibule Limited," leaving New York at 4:20 p. m. daily, and the "United States Fast Mail," leaving New York at 12:05 midnight. The former train carries through Pullman drawing room sleeping cars between New York, Jacksonville and Tampa, and also offers Pullman sleeping car service between New York and Augusta, Ga., with connections for Aiken, Brunswick and Jekyl Island. The latter carries through drawing room sleeping cars between New York and Jacksonville, connecting with parlor car service to points on F. C. & P. R. R. and F. E. C. Ry. Dining cars are operated on all trains of the Southern Ry. "The Florida Short Line" in connection with the Florida East Coast Railway to Miami offers the most direct, quickest and delightful service to Nassau, Havana and Key West. For full information, reservations, etc., apply to J. L. Adams, G. E. A., F. C. & P. R. R., 353 Broadway, New York, or to A. S. Thweatt, E. P. A., Southern Ry., 271 Broadway, New York.

FEATHERED BAROMETERS.

Sailors Warned by Them of a Coming Storm.

While a British brig was gliding smoothly along before a good breeze in the south Pacific a flock of small birds about the size, shape and color of parrakeets settled down in the rigging and passed an hour or more of resting. The second mate was so anxious to find out the species to which the visiting strangers belonged that he tried to entrap a specimen, but the birds were too shy to be thus caught and too spry to be seized by the quick hands of the sailors. At the end of about an hour the birds took the brig's course and disappeared, but toward nightfall they came back and passed the night in the maintop.

The next morning the birds flew off again, and when they returned at noon the sailors scattered some food about the decks. By this time the birds had become so tame that they hopped about the decks, picking up the crumbs. That afternoon an astonishing thing happened. The flock came flying swiftly toward the brig. Every bird seemed to be piping as if pursued by some little invisible enemy on wings, and they at once huddled down behind the deckhouse. The superstitious sailors at once called the captain of the brig, who rubbed his eyes and looked at the barometer. A glance showed that something was wrong with the elements, and the brig was put in shape to outride a storm.

The storm came about 20 minutes after the birds had reached the vessel. For a few minutes the sky was like the waterless bottom of a lake—a vast arch of yellowish mud—and torrents of rain fell. Why it did not blow very hard no one knows, but on reaching port two days later the captain learned that a great tornado had swept across that part of the sea. The birds left the vessel on the morning after the storm and were not seen again.—Maryland Bulletin.

The Widower Made Plans For His Fourth Honeymoon.

Included in the wide membership of the Pacific Union club is a middle aged man whom everybody knows simply as the Widower. He has been so fortunate as to outlive three consorts without getting tired of any of them. His many bereavements have given him a sort of professional standing in the world of sorrow, and he is rather proud of his reputation for constant mourning.

The Widower, whose grief is interesting to ladies, is never ostentatious in his sighings. On the contrary, he cultivates an air of patient resignation, beautiful to behold. A peculiarity about his case is his habit of associating the memory of each dear, departed spouse with some spot or resort about the city or the suburban towns.

He was recently showing San Francisco and its environs to a friend from New York. Over in Berkeley, he remarked, sighingly:

"Here I once walked on flowers, for my Elizabeth was with me then."

Out in the park he was careful to indicate the exact spot where poor Katharine had sketched the landscape with her right hand, while her left was clasped in his. At Sutro Heights he dropped a single tear, developed with great difficulty, as he gazed on the beach, where, not so very long ago, he sat with his arm around his sainted Caroline.

"If I ever marry again," he remarked musingly, "I think I shall bring her here." —San Francisco News Letter.

Irish Pronunciation.

An amusing example of the Irishman's pronunciation occurs in a story told of the late Dr. Todd, the Irish archæologist, who, although a great scholar, was not above perpetrating a practical joke. The London Spectator tells the story and says:

A very learned Englishman went to Dublin to examine some manuscripts in the library of Trinity college and was of course introduced to Dr. Todd, who one day in conversation told him that there was in Trinity college a curious instance of the survival of a habit dating from the time of the Danes; that at a certain hour of the afternoon—I think 6 o'clock—a porter went the round of the college ringing a bell and calling out in a loud voice, "The Dane's in the hall," when all the students rushed from their rooms to repel the invaders. So the learned but somewhat incredulous Englishman repaired to the college at 6 o'clock, and, sure enough, what Dr. Todd had told him came to pass, which he gravely related on his return to England. The summons of course referred to the dean.

His Feelings Were Hurt.

"I used to think these mother-in-law jokes were fiction," said a young man with a fancy vest and a receding chin, "but I guess they're justifiable."

"Has yours been cruel to you?"

"Yes. I told two or three of these stories about a man's being glad to be rid of his wife's mother, and she said that if I kept on talking in that manner she'd stop paying the house rent and the coal bill and the taxes, and that she'd take her furniture to fix up a home of her own. The idea of threatening a man in that way, in cold blood!" —Washington Star.

Two Extremes.

"My ambition," said a French writer, "is to condense a book into a chapter, a chapter into a paragraph, a paragraph into a phrase." A teacher in one of our colleges said of Richardson, "His ambition was to expand a phrase into a paragraph, a paragraph into a page, a page into a chapter and a chapter into a volume." —New York Commercial Advertiser.

His Concern.

A commercial traveler on his trip called upon a well known chemist. He was nervous as he put his hand in his pocket and handed out a card.

"I represent that concern," said the young man.

"You are fortunate," replied the chemist.

The commercial traveler was encouraged and said:

"I think so, sir, and the chemist who trades with us is even more so. My firm has the finest line of cosmetics in the country."

And he handed back the photograph which the young man had given him by mistake. He took it and left without waiting to make any farewell remarks. —London Sketch.

Worship of the Tiger.

The carcass of the tiger was carried to the adjacent village, where a hen was decapitated in front of it by the Gonds as an offering to the tiger god, while all the women assembled and did obeisance to the monster, bringing also their children, and placing each a small coin on the tiger's body or in front of its jaws; for these primitive people look on the tiger as their god, and small marvel seeing what a wondrous creature he is, with matchless symmetry of form and mighty strength, before which man seems an insignificant puppet.—"Tropics and Snows," by Burton.

Why She Was Sad.

It was in a little out of the way place in the country, and as the recent arrival passed some asked who she was.

"She is a society woman who has been wishing for the last ten years that she could get away from the trials and anxieties and bores and superficiality of society," was the answer.

"But why is she so sad?"

"Because at last she has got away from them."—Chicago Post.

Mr. Elisha Berry, of this place, says he never had anything to do him so much good and give such quick relief from rheumatism as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. DEWEY OUTRANKED.

"It is said that Admiral Dewey has sent a message to the president and to Senators Elkins and Gorman, his warm personal friends, expressing the hope that he may soon be raised to the rank of Admiral, according to the president's recommendation. The message will say that Dewey seeks the honor for the glory of his country and not for his own satisfaction. It is wholly a matter of the precedence of his country. As the matter now stands Admiral Dewey is outranked by naval officers of every country in eastern waters, and is said to be frequently subjected to humiliation which he keenly feels. E. W. Hardin, a newspaper correspondent, who was at the battle of Manila bay, was asked about the matter today, and gave important reasons for immediate elevation of Admiral Dewey."

In consideration of his creditors not prosecuting him Grant C. Gillet, the Kansas Cattle King will return from Mexico and give up what money he has.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows; "I was in a most dreadful conditien tion. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

NO POLITICS IN IT.

A Joint Letter to The Citizens of Guilford County.

Greensboro, N. C., Jan. 27, '99.

To Whom it May Concern:

We understand that the present legislature will be asked, within the next few days, to enact a law establishing in Guilford county a dispensary and to this end petitions are now being circulated in the county.

These petitions will be placed in the hands of both democrats and republicans in order that the question of politics may be eliminated in the consideration of the matter. We are of the opinion that the question is not one of politics and in order that the people of all parties may feel free to express themselves by means of these petitions we address this letter jointly to the citizens of Guilford county, asking that the question of politics be eliminated from its consideration and assuring the voters of all parties that no political advantage, if it lies in our power to prevent it, shall be taken of either party by reason of the members of that party being either in favor of or against the dispensary.

This, in our opinion, is a question for the people irrespective of party affiliations. Respectfully,

(Signed) A. M. Scales, Ch'm.
